

Around the town ...

■ Almost every year island resident and insurance man Nat Italiano posts a picture of the night-blooming cereus in front of his house, and this year the crop of blooms was truly amazing.

Can you ever truly see enough of these amazing sights? We don't think so ...

■ Did you know that the shell collection in the Johann Fust Library loggia contains 80 specimens that were gathered on Boca Grande's beaches by the Henry F. DuPont and his family from 1920 to 1969? It also contains 151 specimens from all over the world, donated by George Melissas. Come and see this beautiful collection before they install hurricane shutters for the storm season.

■ That fine-looking young lady with the sharp knife is not to be feared ... it's Cindy Crespo at her food truck down at Whidden's Marina. They're going to be changing their hours in the next few weeks, which means they will be open on Tuesday next week, 11 a.m. to 3 p.m., and Thursday through Saturday, 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. On the week of the 20th they will be open Wednesday through Saturday, 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. They will be closed from June 27 to July 11. It's great food, so get it while you can!

■ Above left, Boca Bargains will be holding a one-day furniture sale this Saturday, June 11, from 9 a.m. until noon. According to the shopkeepers, there will be a fine selection of things to choose from, so help them clear out and make room for more goodies! Call Candy at (813) 601-2759 if you have questions. Above right, Island School kindergarten teacher Megan O'Connor and former Head of School Jean Thompson were honored with a going-away bash after the school's spring recital on Thursday, June 2. If you were unable to attend the festivities, please leave your thoughts and good wishes for them on Facebook page 2020TIS Reunion Planning Page.
