

Around the Island with Idalia

■ Shown here is much of the aftermath of Hurricane Idalia's brief encounter with the island, including the expected heavy wave action in the Gulf that came up and over the sea walls; flooding at the Boca Grande Community Center, by Whidden's Marina, Harbor Drive and at Belcher Road by the State Park entrance; even some at 5th Street and Lee Avenue. We also had a nice double water-spout and, when it was over, some time for the locals to have the streets to themselves to walk their dogs. As you can see in the photo at far right (center), the north end roadway did not flood too badly.
