

THE BOCA BEACON AROUND THE WORLD

■ BY TERRY SEITZ

I travel the world for my furniture business and I take the Boca Beacon with me on my travels. But this time I'm vacationing on the trail to Machu Piccho, Peru, South America.

Ninety-six percent of the people who visit Machu Piccho take the train all the way from Cusco to the current town of Machu Piccho and then switch to a bus for a 30 minute ride to the ruins of Machu Picchu. Only four percent of the 4,500 people allowed in per day, elect to get off the train at stop 104 and trek the seven hour uphill trek on original 800 year old Inca trail to the ancient sites of Winay Wayna and Intipunku and then on to the ruins of Machu Piccho.

On this day I was the only person who got off the train at stop 104. And the lone man waiting in the dirt at stop 104 was my guide Jesus.

Ruins, temples, tombs and waterfalls are believed to have been built in the 1450s. Machu Picchu was declared a Peruvian Historic Sanctuary in 1982, UNESCO World Heritage Site in 1983 and was voted one of the New Seven Wonders of the World.
